HERE IN COSTA RICA WE HAVE A SAYING: PURA VIDA

While the direct translation is “pure life,” we use pura vida as a greeting, a thank you, you are welcome or to express that something is awesome. It’s many greetings and expressions rolled into one! It’s also a way of expressing peace between each other and a way of life for the almost 5 million of us who inhabit this tiny nation that has no army and the highest life satisfaction in the world. Sure, our country has problems like all others, but we like to focus on all the positives, instead of fears or worries.

Pura vida sums up this way we choose to live and our outlook on life. It symbolizes Costa Rica’s idea of moving things forward and simply enjoying life. We are thrilled to share this spirit with you, our dear guests!

ARENAL VOLCANO

Our good old friend, the Arenal Volcano, was dormant for more than 400 years. Little did the local people know it was planning a big surprise - its biggest eruption ever on July 29, 1968! The Arenal became one of the most active volcanoes in the world for more than 40 years. Pouring lava out almost everyday, this majestic mountain grew in size until 2010. That's when it decided to fall asleep again. It has kept its amazing cone shape and fumarole on top, giving it that iconic volcano look. You can hike its foothills on the old lava trail, admiring the spectacular landscape around you all the while. The Arenal Volcano is truly a majestic symbol of the region's natural beauty.
